Issue: *.Q: .Net Object Validation for Mail.dll I am just curious if .net framework provides any object validation for mail.dll(exists in Program Files\Microsoft\Windows\localservice\imap.dll) A: Visual Studio's IntelliSense is based on the TypeDescriptor class. It checks for things like null-reference exceptions or not passing an optional argument to constructors, etc. The documentation is all here. Blogs Getting ready for the Gold Star In the last week, former President George W. Bush presented the family of Sergeant La David Johnson with a posthumous Bronze Star and two Purple Hearts, resulting in heavy criticism from those who think it sends the wrong message. Any time the military honors the death of a servicemember, there are going to be some critics on both sides. Giving Johnson a medal for his valor — and even awarding him two purple hearts, which he earned at the time of his death — is a good thing. Johnson, a 25-year-old soldier who was a recipient of the Army's highest medal for valor, died after a vehicle he was traveling in went over an improvised explosive device in Nangarhar province in eastern Afghanistan. Four soldiers were killed in the incident and Johnson died on the way to a medical unit. Even though Johnson received the Bronze Star, with the designation of "highly recommended," the family was expecting more. "Five months after my son was murdered, my faith was tested when I was confronted with the news that my son's Bronze Star was being taken away," Johnson's mother, Cowanda Jones-Johnson said in a statement. The Army's honoring of Johnson is a signal of how seriously it takes the loss of a soldier;

How to get the url generated by a Django 3.0 template? I am using the Django 3.0 website builder for a new project, and I am not able to use the middleware `django.middleware.home.Homes`. For some reason I'm not able to use that middleware as I cannot access the current URL (which I think it's because the template engine is forcing a refresh). This is the code of my template: `{% extends "base.html" %} {% load static %} {% block content %} {% if user.is_authenticated %}`
